Southwest Acupuncture College Welcome Back Students and Faculty to Both Campuses by Steve Milberger, Boulder Campus Librarian, Heather Lang, Boulder Campus Director, & Sophia Bungay, Admissions & Alumni Director

The COVID-19 pandemic has made 2020 a challenging year but we see a light at the end of the tunnel as we continue to follow the distancing and safety protocols in all aspects of our daily living as well as securing our vaccines. Due to the necessity of practical classes and clinic hours being taught in person, as you know, we have decided to reopen both campuses for Spring 2021 beginning January 11, 2021. Naturally there are some changes for this upcoming semester.

COVID-19 protocols have been implemented to keep you safe

- Medical-style procedure masks are required
- Handwashing is preferable to hand sanitizer
- Social distancing protocols must be followed as much as is practical
- Seating and traffic pattern guidelines must be followed

Renovations:

- The new Santa Fe campus will welcome you as you return. This includes a beautiful library facility, wonderfully set up classrooms, convenient and comfortable break rooms, and a well-designed clinic. The new campus a beautiful place where students can matriculate, and faculty, staff and patients can feel at home.
- The Boulder campus is currently undergoing renovations for new classrooms and a new library space. The Boulder library will move into the administrative area and new classrooms will take over the north side of the clinic. These changes will consolidate the campus into one building which will be more convenient for students, faculty, and staff.

Even though the last year has been incredibly challenging, the new year will bring challenges and opportunities for learning and growth for everyone. We look forward to embracing these opportunities with you. We look forward to seeing your faces again and are excited about the opportunities the future holds.
